Rural Safety Council Meeting

On Friday, May 25, the Virginia Rural Safety Council, with the Rural Section of the Virginia Safety Association and the Home School and College Section of the Virginia Safety Association, will hold a joint meeting at the Hotel Roanoke, Roanoke, Virginia.

The Home Demonstration Agent, along with ten women from Appomattox County will attend the meeting on Friday. Mrs. F. F. Carr, Public Relations Chairman of the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs will lead a panel discussion entitled, "Are You Safe at Home?" On this panel with Mrs. Carr will be Joseph A. Pichard, Director of Instruction of the Lynchburg City School; Maude E. Wallace, Assistant Director of Extension in charge of Home Demonstration work; Randall W. Everett Jr., Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs; Mr. J. Robert Anderson, State Health Department; Don Bishoff, of the American Red Cross; and Dr. Margaret Glendy, Safety Chairman, Roanoke Central Council of P.-T. A.

Mrs. R. C. Hubbard, of Appomattox, will give a report on the Appomattox County activities carried on by the Home Demonstration Clubs in their Safety Program.

Rural Home Still Dangerous Place

The rural home is still a dangerous place to be. Of the 541 fatal non-transport accidents in rural Virginia in 1955, 300 of them occurred in the home, according to statistics compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics and released through the Virginia Rural Safety Council.

The total is down 16 from the year before; but up 3 in the home. Farmers fared somewhat better. The number of accidental deaths on farms was 52, down 15 from the year before. Other classifications as to "place of accident" are public places, 130 deaths; down 18; unspecified places, 59 deaths, up 8.

Adulthood, defined as 24 to 64 years of age, continued as the most dangerous time of life. Number of deaths in this classification was 177, down only 1 from 1954. Next came old age, 65 and over, with 147 accidental deaths, down 5 from the year before. The Grim Reaper graded in accidental deaths with: infants (under one year) with 60—up 4; and school age children (5 to 14 years old with 57—up 12. Fifty-one preschool (one to 4 years old) children lost their lives accidentally, 5 fewer than in 1954; and 49 (15 to 24 years old) youths died accidentally, 18 fewer than the year before.

Of the 141 deaths caused by fires and explosions, such as trapped in burning buildings, lamps, or stoves explosion, clothing on fire, etc., 126 were in the home, 6 on the farm.

Of the 28 accidental poisoning fatalities, 11 were in the home, 9 in public places, 8 unspecified.

Of the 113 fatal falls, 92 were in the home, 7 on the farm. A large majority of those dying from falls were in the old age group.

Accidental drowning took its heaviest toll in the 15 to 25 year old group; while 14 of those choking to death on food were in the infant class. All of those smothered in bed were infants.

Long the target of safety-minded individuals, farm animals killed only three people in rural Virginia last year. Also low was the list: on lightning, which killed one, and on poisonous insects, which killed one.

Virginians continued to fall out of bed, slip on the bathroom floor, and aim "unloaded guns"—and to die.

Not counted in these statistics are 40 deaths occurring in mines and quarries, and 14 occurring in industrial places in the rural areas of Virginia.

Ground Ginger is Pepper-Upper

Are you the kind of a cook who likes to try for those special flavors you find in certain dishes when you eat out? Well, here's one way you can try, a way of fixing chicken that many restaurants use to give that extra zip: before roasting a chicken, rub it inside and out with a mixture of ginger and butter. Just a small pinch of the spice is enough. Simple, isn't it? But one of the many ways you can use ginger to spark up everyday dishes.

Since ginger is the spice of the month, let's see what else this one of our most popular spices can do in our kitchens. Let's skip over the obvious uses, like gingerbread, stewed fruits, etc. Ginger has a great ability to give a lift to meats and cheeses. To those of only enough, a pinch or the tang of the spice to ginger flavor. The slight to heightens the flavors of foods.

The Chinese, masters of cookery, add ginger to table dishes, many of just a few thin slices of ginger seems to stretch of the meat as well as that of the vegetable. ginger, although native now grown mostly in Africa.

The next time you have particulary if it's made with vegetables and beef, to family too— will be amaz the flavor is popped up ginger is tossed into the

Carver-Price School News

Hello Readers!

As we look at our school calendar today, we see only three more days of formal classes before finals on May 31 and June 1. In fact, we're not ready to even consider the year is practically over—it could be the late spring we've had.

Wednesday evening, May 23, the Girls' Physical Education Demonstration was given under the direction of Mrs. Harriett P. James, instructor. We shall report the program next week, for at this writing, it has not been held.

The Junior-Senior Prom will be held this Friday evening, May 25, at eight o'clock. The Juniors, with their sponsor, Mr. J. H. Clay, promise an out-of-this-world prom this year. They have worked hard on this project. The orchestra comes from Richmond, Beautiful dresses will be seen, we hear.

Tuesday evening, May 29, the Choir wil present its Recital at 8:00 o'clock, in the Auditorium, under the direction of Miss Celestial Sergeon. An enjoyable musical evening has been prepared for your enjoyment. Plan to attend.

The Baseball Team played Moton High, of Farmville, on Monday, May 21, there. The score was 3-2, with Farmville winning.

Senior photos arrived Wednesday May 23, from the Brodnax Studio of Richmond. These were taken in their caps and gowns. Recently, the composite picture of the class, with sponsor, Mrs. H. P. James and Principal R. E. Patrick were seen in the newspaper.

The theme for Commencement this year is "In Keeping With the Times." Speeches will be delivered by the three honor students developed from the theme. "Recognizing Important Things," will be presented by Viola Johnson, Class President and Third Honor Student. "Our Heritage," Effie McCoy, Salutatorian; and "The Scientific Approach to Problems," Roberta Lewis, Valedictorian. Organizations have been solicited for additional awards for excellence in work and achievements.

The remainder of our school calendar includes:

Class Night, Friday, June 1, at 8:00 P. M.

Baccalaureate, Sunday, June 3, at 4:00 P. M.

Review of Final Exams, Monday, June 4.

Tuesday, June 5, Students remain home—teachers work on records.

Wednesday, June 6, Report Cards and dismissal at 11:00 A. M. Commencement at 8:00 P. M.

Thursday, June 7, Teachers complete records for term.

Until next week, our thought: "The reward of one duty done is the power to fulfill another."
